Regarding: INDEMNIFICATION CLAUSES IN TRANSPORTATION CONTRACTS

To Whom it May Concern;

Sammons Trucking is a Montana trucking company that currently has over 325 full time contractors leased to us. Over the past 50 years we have had many contracts with shippers throughout the United States and Canada. It is very apparent to us that over the past 10 years, more and more shippers have been adding clauses to their contracts that limit their liability exposures by transferring these to the truckers by using indemnification clauses (sometimes called Hold Harmless agreements) in their contracts.

These clauses, if agreed to, obligate the trucking companies to pay for or reimburse the shipper even for direct actions of the shipper or employees. Example: Shipper's fork lift runs over a trucker in their warehouse. If the trucker sues the shipper for his injuries the shipper would revert to the contract and the trucking company would have to reimburse the shipper for any incurred expenses including in most cases their legal fees.

In many cases the trucking companies are required to sign the contract as is to get the business. Many trucking companies sign as they need the work and don't have the means to modify the contract. This problem is much more difficult for smaller trucking companies because they cannot negotiate these contracts on equal terms. For them it is sign as is or don't play.

More than 35 states now have laws in place now to void or extremely limit the use of Indemnification clauses and we feel that Montana should be part of this group. Our feeling is that every entity should be responsible for their actions. We should be held accountable for what we do. Our shippers should do the same, even if they are large steel companies, oil companies or manufacturing companies who have the clout to force contract language on potential transportation companies.

Please seriously consider adding Montana to the list of states that consider contract language that passes a company's liability for their own actions, to trucking companies as unlawful. House Bill 347 would go far in fixing this problem.

Sincerely,

Tim Burke

President

6.0 INDEMNITY

6.1 It is agreed between Company and Contractor that certain responsibilities and liabilities for personal injuries and property damage arising out of the performance of this Agreement should be allocated between them in order ~~to avoid protracted litigation between Company and Contractor along with~~ the associated legal expenses and so that insurance or self-insurance may be arranged by each party as necessary to protect them against these exposures to loss.
